Selecting Engagement Rings Is Easier Than You Thought

If you are looking to give your special someone a gift then engagement rings Toowoomba could be the most important jewelry pieces any man could give the woman of his dreams. Perhaps, this could also be the most important gift she will receive as this symbolizes his love and commitment to her. Scouting for the perfect ring may be very challenging especially when the standards to it are unknown. Here are some thoughts to ponder on to help those in search for the ideal surprise for their wives-to-be.

Consider Your Loved One

Your lady's physical attributes, preferences and daily lifestyle are included under this. For the first factor, you do not have to consider her appearance from head to foot, only her hands and fingers. Try to gauge their respective size and lengths. Bear in mind for petite hands with short fingers, oval or pear-shaped diamonds can elongate them. For big hands with lengthy fingers, thick bands with big diamonds will compliment them best. Generally, delicate engagement rings will make bulky hands and chunky fingers look even bigger.

Consider her jewelry preferences. You may observe the common accessories she wears at events. From there you will get a hint of her taste. Have you ever asked her opinion before about precious metals or gemstones? Take your lead there. She will feel extra special when she receives the ring of her dreams from the best Toowoomba jewellery stores you can find.

Consider her job and everyday chores. Ornaments like this are worn at work and at home. Wherever your beloved woman may be, wearing your symbol of love and commitment should not impede her from doing the things she is used to. Does she work with her hands most of the time? Then, a heavy ring won't be helpful. Does she work outside and not in the safety of an office? A less noticeable ring might be best for her. If your girlfriend is a policewoman or a counselor to drug abusers or juvenile delinquents, wearing jewelry may just cost her life. If your girlfriend is a preschool teacher or a pediatrician who is always in the company of children, wearing high-pronged diamond rings may just wound the skin of the young.

Think About The Ring's Appearance

The three important factors identifying the ideal ring are shape, cut and setting. When it comes to the shape, round, princess, emerald, cushion and asscher are top choices. Among these, round diamonds are the most popular. Through time their qualities were improved for added brilliance, thus, more people purchase them. In fact, 70 percent of the mass-produced diamonds are round. The mentioned shapes were born in the 21st century. Unique as they are, the latter at time cost more as the demand for them is less.

Diamond cut is different from diamond shape. More often, these terms are interchanged. The former refers to the width, depth and conformity of the facets. It influences the stone's ability to catch, refract and reflect light. Cuts could be deep or shallow. Shallow cuts disable diamonds to catch enough light to sparkle. Deep cuts reflect light in different degrees.

Lastly, engagement rings include settings. These are no longer exclusive to plain gold. White gold, platinum, palladium, titanium, and tungsten are the other available choices.
